Giza Pyramids and Sakkara Trip

Take a day trip to ancient Egypt. See the Pyramids of Giza and the Great Sphinx before heading to Saqqara, which is home to the Step Pyramid of the genius of the engineer Imhotep... How was the step pyramid of Djoser built ?, among other sights. Learn more with our licensed and experienced guide.

We cross the Nile and travel to Giza to the ancient pyramids, built around 2560 BC. Renowned as one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, it will be difficult not to stare in amazement upon arriving at the pyramids and ask, 'How were they built? And why?' Rest assured that all of our guides are trained Egyptologists who will be pleased to assist you and respond to any inquiries you may have. There will be the option at this point of the tour to go inside one of the three ancient pyramids.

The Great Sphinx and its temple will then be seen for the first time as we descend to the Valley of the Kings at Kafra, which is located on the edge of the plateau. A lion's body and a human head combine to form the legendary Great Sphinx of Giza.

Giza Pyramids and Sakkara Tour

You will be picked up at approximately 8:00 AM by A/C VAN by an English speaking guide who will accompany you throughout the duration of your tour. Visit with us the Giza Pyramids archaeological area, the most important tourist destination for everyone, and discover the entire archaeological area development project. After developing the area, you will begin to see a three-dimensional model of the pyramids and cemeteries, showing the details of the archaeological area.

A comprehensive explanation is also provided in a cinema hall, which shows a five-minute film narrating the history of the archaeological site, voiced by actor Kevin Costner. Visitors are then directed to the first of the electric bus stations, which have been provided to preserve the environment and prevent noise pollution and exhaust emissions within the archaeological area.

The pyramids of Khufu, Khafre, and Menkaure, the Sphinx, the Valley Temple, and the myth of Thutmose IV, who established his right to reign between the Sphinx, will all be covered archaeologically and historically by our guide.

After that, you will be taken to a neighborhood eatery where you may sample traditional Egyptian fare and discover more about the history and culinary customs of the nation. Come with me to the Saqqara area, which is well-known for its step pyramid but also has a lot of other monuments to see, including the Imhotep Museum and the Step Pyramid complex of King Djoser, the pyramids of Teti, and Unas, a smooth-faced pyramid constructed in the 24th century BC for the Egyptian pharaoh Unas, the ninth and final king of the Fifth Dynasty.
