At the National Museum of the Egyptian Civilization (NMEC):

The National Museum of Egyptian Civilization is located in the heart of the historic city of Fustat in the old city of Cairo, and the choice of the city of Fustat to be the seat of the museum was well thought out, as its geographical surroundings include monuments of different civilizations, as it is the best evidence of the tolerance of religions in Egypt, the cradle of civilizations.

The Abden Museum:

The palace witnessed events that played a major role in the modern and contemporary history of Egypt. It is also the first beginning of the emergence of modern Cairo. At the same time when the palace was being built, Khedive Ismail ordered the planning of Cairo in the European style of spacious squares, wide streets, palaces, buildings, bridges on the Nile, and gardens rich in trees. And types of palms and rare plants.

After the tour is over you will be taken back to your boat at the Sokhna port.
