On your way to Ashiqar Heritage Village, immerse yourself in Saudi Arabia's captivating nature and ancient architectural masterpieces, while experiencing its rich customs and traditions.

This site is located in the heart of Najd, about 200 km northwest of Riyadh. Ushaiger Heritage Village offers a glimpse into the serene and unhurried Saudi society of yesteryears. This village was established by Bedouins 1,500 years ago, it served as a vital stopover for pilgrims en route to Makkah, owing to its abundant springs and lush olive and palm groves. Ushaiger, meaning 'little blonde' in an intriguing nod to its surroundings, boasts a close-knit community that still utilizes its educational institutions, markets, and mosques. Traversing its narrow streets is akin to stepping into a vibrant living museum, steeped in the remnants of ancient traditions.

Enclosed by stout walls, Ushaiger's layout comprises a maze of winding alleys, shaded pathways, and timber-framed walkways, interweaving amid hundreds of mud-brick dwellings. Divided into distinct neighborhoods and punctuated by verdant palm groves, the village showcases meticulously restored homes, showcasing the quintessential Najdi architecture, characterized by triangular windows, intricately carved wooden doors, and peaked roofs. Some dwellings even bear the monikers of their former inhabitants.
