The remnants of the historic Alexandria lighthouse, which previously stood here, may still be seen. Then go to Kom el Shogafa's catacombs, the largest Roman cemetery with three levels cut out of rock and a significant first-century archeological site. More than 300 mummies, the most popular burial deities, and various Greco-Roman motifs may be found on its three basement floors.

After resting and recovering at the Pompay Pillar, you'll explore Alexandria's Pompey Column and the Serapeus Temple Ruins. According to some historians, this great Roman general was slain in combat and later buried here.

We'll visit the Valley of Agabat for sandboarding down dunes, petrified wood formations, and Crystal Mountain for historic quartz crystal formations.

Our guides prepare lunch, and we camp in the White Desert, where we can watch a stunning sunset and relax in the camp while observing the stars.
